Lead-in

- 1 Look at the entry from the Longman Exams Dictionary. Mark the key points that define lifestyle.

life·style /'laɪfstɑɪl/ n [C] the way a person or group of people live, including the place they live in, the things they own, the kind of job they do and the activities they enjoy: Regular exercise is part of a healthy lifestyle. | lavish/comfortable/simple/etc. lifestyle They lead an extremely lavish lifestyle.

- 2 Discuss the questions.

- 1 The photos show typical aspects of a student's lifestyle in the UK. Which would you most/least enjoy? Why?
- 2 Think of one adjective that describes your lifestyle best.

Reading: Developing skills

Before you read

- 1 Read the title of the article on page 9 and the introduction. In what ways can parents be 'pushy'?

Skimming

- 2 Skim the article and match the summary sentences (1–4) with the sections of the article (A–D).
- 1 Some children are expected to do activities for the wrong reasons.
 - 2 The more activities children do, the better.
 - 3 Children don't need pressure at their age.
 - 4 Technology has advantages for children.

Scanning

- 3 Look at the questions in the task below. The key words are highlighted for you. Now look at the example (0). The highlighted words link to the highlighted part of section C of the text. Then read the strategies and do the task.

EXPERT STRATEGY

Skimming

- Use the title, introduction and any pictures to get an idea of the topic and what a text will be about. This will make it easier to understand the text.
- To get a general understanding of a text, read through it quickly, focusing only on the main ideas. These are found in 'topic sentences', often the first or last sentences of each paragraph.

EXPERT STRATEGY

Scanning

When you know what information you want to find, you can save time by scanning the text for it, rather than reading the whole text. Read the questions first, identify the key words and look for phrases or information in the text that express the same ideas.

You are going to read an article in which different families give their views on how children should spend their free time. For questions 1–10, choose from the sections (A–D). The sections may be chosen more than once.

Which section mentions:

- the anxiety some parents have about aspects of modern life?
- an attempt to limit the time spent playing computer games?
- the practical difficulties of getting children to their activities?
- the pressure that many children are under to succeed?
- a suspicion that the activities which some children go to may not be their own choice?
- the benefits to children of having access to a computer?
- worrying about letting children be independent?
- the value of playing music for pleasure?
- the difficulty of being a 'one-parent family'?
- the link between practising new skills and making progress?
- a negative view of competitive parents?

- 4 Which of the skills, skimming or scanning, did you find the most useful for the task in Exercise 3? Why?

Vocabulary

- 5 Look at the underlined words and phrases in the article and guess what they mean.

Discussion

- 6 Which family's lifestyle is most similar to/different from yours?

Our lost childhood?

Last week a group of teachers, authors and psychologists said video games and 'pushy parents' were robbing children of their happiest years. But is that true? Here we speak to four very different families.

A The Thomases

Our children like to chill out in front of the TV or play computer games just like every child all over the world. But parents also need to give their children the chance to try out as many different things as they can afford. Both our boys play football for a club and their school, so they train a couple of times a week and play at the weekend. Charlie also plays basketball and the drums. William learns the electric guitar and Laura sings and has kickboxing and trampolining lessons. But we make it clear to them that if they want to improve at something, they need to work hard and keep doing it over and over again. There's only Friday when someone is not out. It's spent eating pizzas and deciding on the logistics of how and when we are going to get the children to their different classes over the weekend.

B The Luckhursts

The best thing you can give your children is time. Proper time. Not a few snatched minutes here and there while you rush them off to ballet or violin lessons but time spent talking and listening to them.

These days children are packed off to all sorts of lessons at an ever younger age. They are expected to achieve more and more younger and younger, and are made to feel a failure if they don't reach the targets set for them. I encourage my kids to play the piano but only for fun – that's just as important. Childhood is the only time in your life when you can play and not have the worries that adults have. So why are we trying to rush it? I think the rivalry between parents at school is particularly depressing – as if anyone cares whose child learns to ride a bike first or learns to read before anyone else!

C The McGraths

Here in Britain, we tend to complain that children don't play in the garden and go out on their bikes the way we did. Computer games and the internet have taken over from playing outside but, although I worry about this, I doubt I'd have been riding bikes if we'd had the internet. Maybe as adults we're scared of the world they're growing up in because we don't really understand it. In any case, since I separated from my husband, it's not easy to keep the children constantly entertained and I'm happy for them to go on the computer because it gives me a break. Both my kids love computer games. Natalie spends a lot of time on Facebook and, actually, it's a good way for her to keep in touch with her friends in Spain and keep up her Spanish at the same time.

D The Clarkes

If my kids had their way, they'd be on the computer the minute they got home from school but I try to keep an eye on this because we do have rules about how long they're allowed to spend playing games on their computer. When they're not doing this, the boys play football together and Julia does cheerleading and goes to a youth club. She wants to go ice-skating but the nearest rink is a bus ride and a walk away, and I'm worried that she's still a bit young to do this on her own.

I can't afford to send my kids to extra lessons. In any case, too many people push their kids into doing something because they themselves used to do it or wanted to. Living your life through your kids has its own dangers, in my view. Julia loves horses but riding lessons cost a fortune, so that's out.

Comparing photos

- 6a You are going to talk for one minute about two of the photos on page 14. (Note: in the exam, you only get two photos.) Choose two that you would like to compare and make notes about them under these headings.

- 7 Think of a memorable celebration you've taken part in. Who took part and what happened? How would you describe the occasion (e.g. moving, funny, exhilarating)? Give reasons.

EXPERT STRATEGY

If you have to speak for an extended period such as a minute, divide the time into smaller sections and think about what to say in each section. Don't try to say everything at once!

Listening: Developing skills

Before you listen

EXPERT STRATEGY

Before you listen, think about the topic and try to predict some of the language you will hear.

Listening for gist

EXPERT STRATEGY

You can get a general idea of a topic without understanding every word. Just concentrate on key words and main points rather than the details.

Listening for specific information

EXPERT STRATEGY

You often need to listen for specific pieces of information. The words you need will often be similar to (but not exactly the same as) the words in the questions.

- 1 Discuss the questions.
- 1 What are the most common reasons for people going to live in another country?
 - 2 Think of a few different countries. What do you think the advantages and disadvantages of living there would be?

- 2  Listen to three people talking about living abroad. Why did each of the speakers first go abroad?

Speaker 1: _____

Speaker 2: _____

Speaker 3: _____

- a to study
- b for work
- c for a holiday

- 3  Look at the task and mark the key words in the statements. The first item has been done for you. Then listen again and do the task. (Note: in the exam, there will be five speakers and you will choose one option for each speaker from eight available options.)

For questions 1–3, choose from the list (A–E) what each speaker says. Use the letters only once. There are two extra letters which you do not need to use.

A People have been very kind to me.

B The climate is the reason I came here.

C It feels very remote living here.

D The people are exactly as I'd imagined.

E Mealtimes have a high priority.

Discussion

- 4 Discuss how you would feel about living in another country. Talk about:
- which countries you have visited or lived in and how you felt about them.
 - which countries you would like to live in and why.
 - what you missed/would miss most about your own country.
